Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

A BILL introduced in the legislature today proposes that the state levy a special tax on motion picture theaters operating "Bank Night"—that is, a drawing in which a capital cash prize is awarded. The bill should be defeated. "Bank Night" or any similar subterfuge to get around federal and state anti-lottery laws violates the public interest.

State Monopoly for Liquor Gets Aid From Bailey

Governor's Support Claimed for Bill Striking Private Stores

TO REDUCE STORES 2 Millions Extra From State Monopoly for Welfare Department

LITTLE ROCK.—Retail and wholesale liquor dealers operating in Arkansas will be forced to quit business in favor of state-owned retail liquor stores if a bill, which will be introduced in the legislature Monday, is approved.

The bill will be offered simultaneously in the senate by Smith of Monroe and Coleman of Poinsett and in the house by Blair of Logan. Smith said over the week-end that Governor Bailey had seen a copy of the measure and had approved it "in principle."

Under its provisions the state would receive approximately $2,000,000 annually in revenue more than under the present law. The minimum profit to the state under the proposed law would be 20 cents a pint or $1.60 a gallon. The revenue would go to the State Welfare Department.

Senator Smith said that the price of liquor would be reduced appreciably, and that the number of liquor stores would be reduced.

Department of Control
The bill calls for creation of a department of alcoholic beverage control under a commission of three members to be appointed by the governor for terms of five years. The commissioners would receive salaries of $5,000 a year each. They would determine the number of liquor stores to be operated and fix the price of liquor. Prices would be uniform throughout the state except for local fluctuations caused by difference in operating costs. The state's 20 cent profit would be the difference between the cost of liquor to the state from the manufacturer and the sale price fixed by the commission.

Senator Smith said this would eliminate the wholesaler's and retailer's profits as well as the five cents a pint state tax now paid by the consumer.

Wine, Beer Affected
In addition to having complete control over the buying, importing, selling, possessing, transporting and delivery of liquor, the commission would have control over beer and wine. It would be authorized to license distilleries, wineries, breweries, bottlers and wholesalers beer dealers. Retail beer and wine dealers would be licensed, under the same act as present, but only the state could sell alcoholic liquors at retail.

An excise tax of $1 a barrel would be levied on beer. Distillery and winery licenses would range from $100 to $1,000 a year; breweries would pay $1,000 a year; bottlers, $500; wholesale beer dealers, $250; wholesale wine dealers, $50 and retail wine and beer dealers, $25.

The department would create and maintain a $200,000 reserve fund from its collection to pay all operating expenses and depreciation costs.

The department would create and maintain a $200,000 reserve fund from its collections to pay all operating expenses and depreciation costs.

Sales from the state-owned stores would be in unbroken packages, as under the present Thorne act. Drinking on the store's premises would not be permitted.

Several other bills affecting liquor have been introduced, one of which would repeal the Thorne act while others would amend it.

Dramatic Club Meeting Postponed by Illness
The Hope Dramatic club meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Monday at Hope city hall, has been postponed indefinitely. It was announced by Mrs. Claude Doyle, Hempstead county WPA recreational supervisor.

Mrs. Doyle said that postponement was caused by inclement weather and the illness of several members of the club.

Red River Jumps Near Flood Stage But Now Falling

Rises 4 1/2 Feet Saturday to Register 22.4 Feet on Fulton Gauge

RAIN STILL THREAT

Levee Workers "Stand by" to Avert Trouble on Other Streams

Unless there is additional rainfall in the Red river region there is no immediate danger of a flood in the Fulton area, Ben Wilson of Fulton telephoned The Star Monday.

Mr. Wilson reported that the river jumped spectacularly Saturday afternoon and night, rising four and a half feet reached a stage of 22.4 feet at 7 a. m. Sunday.

The river passed its crest Sunday about 11 a. m. At 7 a. m. Monday the reading was 22 feet. Flood stage is 25 feet.

Mr. Wilson reported that 70 of an inch of rainfall was recorded at Fulton Sunday.

The Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment station reported Monday that 2.12 inches of rain was recorded since noon Thursday, bringing the total precipitation for January up to 6.94 inches.

Rivers Are Falling

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Flood-gorged Arkansas rivers began falling Monday, but hundreds of workers, apprehensive of further rain, strengthened the levees and maintained constant patrols.

Governor Bailey telegraphed the Department of War and headquarters of the Seventh Corps Area in Omaha, Neb., seeking permission to use 100 CCC and National Guard tents and equipment for flood refugees should the necessity arise.

He explained that the request was only a precautionary measure.

Rain Makes New Threat
LITTLE ROCK.—Overfilled rivers in the state neared crest stages Sunday, but continued downpours in several sections, especially in central and eastern Arkansas, caused apprehension that extensive inundations might be expected.

State WPA officials authorized employment of 100 emergency workers at Newport, in response to an appeal from Marion Dickens, head of the Newport Chamber of Commerce, for aid in protecting the Jacksonport dyke.

A man who identified himself as Wyatt Matkin telephoned Governor Bailey Sunday night from McClelland, Woodruff county, asking that tents be shipped to refugees near McClelland immediately.

The governor communicated with Maj. Ralston Payne, United States property and disbursing officer for the Arkansas National Guard, and was informed that authorization of the War Department is necessary to release National Guard equipment.

Governor Bailey then telegraphed acting Secretary of War Harry W. Woodring at Washington, asking authority to send National Guard tents to the refugees. He telephoned Senator Robinson and asked the senator to take the matter up with the secretary of war immediately.

Several highways in the state, closed by the Highway Department Saturday, continued out of service Sunday, and additional stretches were ordered closed to traffic Sunday night.

Water stood over state Highway 113, between Bigelow and Perryville, and state highway 95 north of Morrilton, Sunday night, although traffic continued to move over both routes. H. D. Booth, traffic supervisor for the Highway Department, said, On state Highway 7 a bridge was out near Ola. Other highways closed were:

Highway 63 between Walnut Ridge and Pothville.

Highway 39 southwest of Marmaduke.

Highway 14 between Newport and Batesville.

Highway 60 between Houston and Perryville.

Highway 67 near Bradford.

Highway 11 between Bradford and Batesville.

Fish & Game Body Ouster Passed by Lower House 82-3

Vesey Opposes It as a Violation of Civil Service Principle

HOT SPRINGS "NO"

"Won't Accept Dictation When Governor Is Wrong"—Cunningham

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The house, meeting four hours ahead of the senate Monday, passed 82 to 3 an administration bill by Tony of Jefferson to abolish the State Game & Fish Commission and set up a new department.

The emergency clause carried by the same vote.

Cunningham of Hot Springs led the opposition to the bill, saying: "I am not going to concur with Governor Bailey and take his dictation when he is wrong. Under the law, these gentlemen on the commission are entitled to serve until their terms expire."

Vesey of Hempstead opposed the Tony bill, declaring it violated the principle of civil service, which has been urged by Governor Bailey.

"This bill to take some men by the seat of the pants and kick them out of office is in violation of every principle of civil service," said Vesey.

"Has any member of this commission been accused of holding office corruptly or violating any law? No, they have not."

The three nay votes were cast by Cunningham, Vesey and Blount.

Blair of Logan introduced in the house a bill to tax theaters operating "Bank Night" programs under which the holder of a lucky number receives a monetary prize.

Attorney General Jack Holt advised Speaker John M. Bransford that 51 votes are necessary to enact a law in the House of Representatives despite the death of one member. Bransford had raised the question after the death of Representative Luke F. Monroe of Hempstead.

Morgan Brothers Are Found Guilty

Convicted by U. S. of Committing Fraud in Gas Utility Business

LITTLE ROCK.—After deliberating 11 minutes, a jury in United States District Court over the week-end found S. R. Morgan, bankrupt utilities operator and his brother, M. B. Morgan, guilty of criminal contempt in connection with the government's charges that they obtained about $10,000 from the assets of the Cherokee Public Service company and the Municipal Gas company of Muskogee, Okla., in bankruptcy.

Judge Heartwell Ragon of Fort Smith, presiding for Judge Marlineau, who disqualified himself, pronounced a tentative sentence of six months in the penitentiary and $500 fine each. Before pronouncing sentence the judge hesitated, and announced that "the court is embarrassed." Tears came into his eyes and his voice was unsteady.

The case against the Morgan brothers opened last Monday. The government charged the Morgans with having obtained "through fraud and subterfuge" about $10,000 from the assets of the Cherokee Public Service company and the Municipal Gas company of Muskogee, Okla., which are in bankruptcy.

Mr. Isgrig charged that they received $10,000 from the trustee of the two companies, W. Dewdney Dickinson of Little Rock, and "actually supplied about $48 worth of gas in return for the payments."

Mr. Isgrig charged that Mr. Dickinson, wishing to obtain gas for distribution by the Municipal Gas company of Muskogee, was induced to make a contract with the "Oklahoma Petroleum Products Company," under the misapprehension that this was a trade name under which the Pure Oil Company operated in Oklahoma. Isgrig charged that the Oklahoma Petroleum Products company was a "dummy corporation" set up by the Morgans to defraud the Municipal Gas company at a profit. He charged that the Oklahoma Petroleum company was not in fact organized until 12 days after it had contracted to sell gas to the trustee of the bankrupt Muskogee company.

Governor's Move to End Auto Strike Fails

Playing a dominant role in the strenuous efforts made for peace in the General Motors strike, Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan is shown here in conference in Detroit, with labor leaders and government conciliators. Murphy took the lead in the attempt to bring union and corporation chiefs together for an across-the-table session to settle their differences. In this picture, left to right, are Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor; James F. Dewey, federal conciliator; Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers; Governor Murphy; and Edward C. ### "Fraternal" Tax Is Declared Void

Supreme Court Dismisses Arkansas' Suit for $1,600,000

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court reversed and dismissed Monday judgments which had been awarded to the state in three test cases brought to collect the gross insurance premium tax from fraternal insurance companies doing business in Arkansas.

The three actions were among 32 identical suits brought last year in the name of the attorney general against fraternal associations offering insurance to members seeking to collect a total of 1 million 600 thousand dollars allegedly due the state in back premium taxes.

Pulaski chancery court had awarded the state judgments totaling $230,738 against the Modern Woodmen of America, the Maccabees, and the Women's Benefit association.

Gold Bar Worth $14,000 Is Stolen

421 Bars Shipped by Swiss Bank—Only 420 Reach New York City

NEW YORK.—(AP)—A bar of gold worth $14,000 was missing Sunday from a shipment of 421 bars which arrived in New York Thursday on the French liner Paris. The story of the missing gold leaked out as the liner sailed on its return voyage.

Responsibility for its disappearance was another matter. Officials declined to be quoted. One federal official said the gold was an insured mail consignment on the liner. An employee of the French Line said it was sent by a Swiss bank as an uninsured piece of parcel post, consigned to the Federal Reserve bank of New York.

Postoffice inspectors began an investigation, but Gregory Noonan of the United States district attorney's office here advised them the matter was not under jurisdiction of the Postoffice Department inasmuch as the missing bar was not signed for by the postoffice truckman.

When the Paris arrived the mail was taken off at the pier, instead of down the bay, as usual. Dumped on the pier, it was loaded on postoffice trucks.

One theory was that the bar was removed from the ship's hold while the Paris lay aground in Quarantine last Wednesday and Thursday. A small boat could have slipped up to the liner's side in the soupy weather. But the gold was in the ship's guarded strongbox, which crew members swore had not been opened.

The theft was discovered by a sharp-eyed driver of a mail truck, who saw an eight-inch slit in one of a group of parcel post bags assigned to the Irving Trust Company of New York, and refused to accept it. The bag was supposed to carry two bars of bullion. When examined, it carried only one.

Investigators pinned their hopes of recovering the gold on two seamen taken from the ship and charged with smuggling narcotics.

French postal officials who stood guard over the Paris' strong room said there was no question the gold shipment was intact when it left France. It was examined first, then sealed under lock and key.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—So many big airplanes have crashed in the last few weeks companies operating the lines may have to add free drinks to their free lunches if they entice many customers. Business is said to have slumped so last week some of the biggest planes are having to carry sand for ballast and offering to go around mountains instead of over them, but at that it can't be denied air travel is about as safe as automobile travel, and on week-ends and holidays a lot safer, and there's a certain feeling of elation as one rides along at five to eight thousand feet in the air at 200 miles an hour and looks down at creeping things.

Monroe Service in Court Tuesday

Joint Session of Circuit and Chancery Will Hear Memorials

Hempstead circuit and chancery courts will meet in joint session at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Washington courthouse to hear public memorials to the late Luke F. Monroe, a pioneer Washington family, long-time member of the county bar, and former prosecuting attorney and legislator.

Responses will be heard from several Hempstead attorneys in the public meeting, on which account all activities of the courts have been suspended for Tuesday.

The joint session will be presided over by Circuit Judge Dexter Bush and Chancellor Pratt Bacon.

Deputy Sheriff Reginald Bearden said that petit jurors summoned to appear at Washington Tuesday will not be required to report until 9 a. m. Wednesday. Bearden said that Circuit Judge Dexter Bush asked him to make the announcement public. There will be no jury trials until Wednesday, Bearden announced.

Hopes for Strike Peace Shattered

Plants Not Vacated, General Motors Won't Permit Conference

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, announced Monday after a brief meeting with high General Motors officials that "the conference is off."

Martin made his statement as he and five associates left the conference room in the General Motors building where negotiations to end the widespread strikes were to have opened at 11 a. m.

Martin's terse statement indicated that General Motors refused to open negotiations because the strikers continued to occupy two Fisher body plants in Flint.

By the Associated Press
New trouble arose Sunday to hamper peace negotiations in the widespread General Motors Corporation strike.

"Stay-in" strikers abandoned their plant to vacate two Fisher body plants at Flint, Mich., under an agreement for a 15-day truce during which the issues would be arbitrated. Possible effect of the conferences scheduled to begin Monday was not discernable immediately.

Thousands who gathered outside Fisher Plant No. 1 at Flint to see evacuation heard the strikers' discussion broadcast by a sound truck. A

93 Are Killed in Motor Accidents

131 Largest Cities Have Better Record in 1936 Than in 1935

By the Associated Press
At least 93 persons were killed in automobile accidents throughout the nation over the week-end. Five or more lost their lives when two cars, one of them in Jersey City, N. J., and the other in Lisbon, Ohio, plunged in rivers. In the Ohio accident, an automobile carrying three persons hurled off a 40-foot embankment.

In the New Jersey crash, the car, identified and estimated to have been going 60 miles an hour, crashed through the guard gate of an open drawbridge, carrying its occupants in a 70-foot plunge. Witnesses disagreed as to whether more than two persons were in the car.

The Census Bureau at Washington reported automobile fatalities during the week ending January 11 in 129 cities totaled 313—107 more than the corresponding week in 1935, and that for the year there were 178 fewer deaths in 131 cities than in 1935.

Week-end auto deaths by states: Alabama, 3; California, 4; Colorado, 1; Connecticut, 3; Florida, 4; Georgia, 1; Illinois, 2; Iowa, 3; Louisiana, 1; Maine, 1; Maryland, 1; Michigan, 2; Minnesota, 5; Missouri, 1; Nebraska, 5; New Jersey, 3; New Mexico, 2; North Carolina, 3; Ohio, 5; Oklahoma, 3; Pennsylvania, 19; South Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 2; Virginia, 4; Washington, 1; West Virginia, 6; Wisconsin, 4.

Petition Granted by Circuit Judge Bush on Monday

Derryberry's Slayer Is Committed for an Indefinite Period

IN JANUARY TERM

Hempstead Circuit Court Is Convened Monday at Washington

Circuit Court Judge Dexter Bush Monday granted a petition ordering Hiram Hembree, 35, confessed killer of Van Derryberry, Sr., to the state hospital for an indefinite period for observation and treatment.

The petition was filed in court Monday by the defendant's attorney, Steve Carrigan. The granting of the petition was among the court's first business after convening at 9:30 a. m. for the January term.

Hembree's attorneys pleaded that their client was insane at his first trial, held last November 19, at a special session of circuit court. The trial resulted in a hung jury.

At the time Dr. A. C. Kolb, superintendent of the state hospital at Little Rock, took the witness stand and testified that Hembree was "insane and criminally dangerous."

Dr. Kolb said that Hembree's mind appears normal at times but at other times he is criminally intent.

At his first trial Hembree told a weird story. He declared that Derryberry and a negro "snooped" around his house at night, peering in at the windows and haunting him.

Derryberry was shot to death on a Hope street last fall. The killer immediately surrendered to Sheriff Jim Bearden, but refused to make a statement until called to the witness stand at his first trial.

A. F. Lead, Guilty
Judge Lawrence Bailey Springs and Woodard Bead withdrew their plea of not guilty in court Monday and then entered a plea of guilty to charges of arson growing out of the burning of the L. L. Middlebrooks home near Painesville on a year ago.

All three are Hope men. Sentence was passed until Thursday, January 21.

Middlebrooks, former rural mail carrier and Baptist preacher, also indicted on an arson charge in connection with the burning of his home, is expected to go to trial Thursday of this week.

Middlebrooks was indicted separately from the other three men.

Andrew Neal, white youth, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of burglary and grand larceny, and was sentenced to one to five years in the boys industrial school.

A murder charge against Claude Bissick was dismissed because of the death of the defendant.

Herman Cooper, negro, held for the killing of Dennis Turner, another negro, is expected to go on trial at this session of court. Cooper shot Turner to death several weeks ago at a negro house on the north side of town.

Cooper then locked the doors, pulled the window shades down and kept two other negroes as prisoners in the house for about 10 hours.

The first few days of court is expected to be devoted to civil cases with the major part of the criminal docket next week.

Municipal Court
Five defendants pleaded guilty in a short session of municipal court at Hope Monday morning. They were: John Moran, white, drunkenness, $10. R. A. Butler and Cio Mitchell, white persons, forfeited $10 cash bond for drunkenness.

Fleming Austin, negro, pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was fined $2.50.

Ernest Smith, negro, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and was fined $25 and sentenced to a day in jail.

Several cases were continued until next Monday including a charge of reckless driving against Jett Williams, Jr., which grew out of an automobile crash into the south side of the Missouri Pacific depot.

The Family Doctor

Cause of Leukemia—Rapid Increase of White Blood Cells—Is Unknown

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

While an increase in the total number of red blood cells is a serious matter, a persistent, great increase in the total number of white blood cells is much more serious from the standpoint of effect on health and life.

From his patient's appearance, the doctor may frequently guess that this disturbance exists, but only an examination of the blood, including a counting of the white blood cells and a study of their appearance, will yield the necessary knowledge to make a diagnosis.

Normal human beings have about 7500 white blood cells in each cubic millimeter of blood. In the condition called leukemia, the white blood cells increase rapidly in amount to 100,000, or even 1,000,000, in every cubic millimeter of blood. As the white blood cells increase, the red ones decrease, the red coloring matter of the red blood cells breaks down, and eventually death may follow.

Cause of this strange malady is unknown. It is definitely related to changes which take place in the blood-forming tissue, such as the bone marrow, spleen, and lymph glands. Fortunately, leukemia is rare.

There are types of cases which come on suddenly and cause death promptly; and there are chronic cases in which the development is gradual.

In very severe cases, the life of the patient is measured in weeks or, at the most, in months. Because of the nature of the condition, the patient becomes weak, has throat pains, and usually has symptoms such as those in most severe types of infectious diseases, associated with anemia, hemorrhage, swelling of the glands, spleen, and liver, and similar signs of serious damage of the body.

One of the first methods of treatment in this type of disease is to inject blood directly into the body through a vein, and sometimes the X-ray is used to control excess activity of the bone marrow. But altogether the outlook is not promising.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton.

Fining as Punishment Is Fine If It Works

"What do you think of this system of fining?" a mother inquired. "After all, to me it is only one form of mild punishment, and the law uses it to enforce good behavior."

I waited to hear the rest before commenting, but I was all prepared to vote against it.

"It is this way," she said. "I make certain rules for the family and I expect them to take me seriously. But generally they do not. It just goes in one ear and out the other. I had tried almost everything, but the more I talked the more careless they seemed to be. One day I was bending over the bath tub to clean it out for Mary after Tommy had used it, and suddenly I got a stitch and couldn't get my head up. I called and they all came running. The way they fussed you would think it was my fault. Why on earth, Bill wanted to know, couldn't I call someone when I wanted the tub cleaned."

Outrage Finds Expression

"Then I got mad. It was wonderful to get into a good rage. At last I had the courage to say a few things that were on my mind. So I said, 'Tub. You talk to me about calling when I want it scoured out. Why, you simpletons, I have been begging and preaching for years trying to get each one of you to wash it out thoroughly after you take a bath, so it will be ready for the next fellow.'"

"Then when I half kill myself you all take to an alibi like ducks to water. It's always been this way. I can't get a single soul to throw back his bedclothes in the morning to let me go up at ten o'clock and use an hour because it hasn't been done. And then I go around treeing shoes and hanging up clothes that would only take an instant from each of you, but it means dozens of stoopings and lift-ings for me. I hurt by back in the first place reaching for Tom's sweater he'd thrown across the room, and allowed it to hang where it stuck, on the curtain pole. Now you want me to call you when something has to be done."

"Well, I am not going to call anybody. What I am going to do will astonish you, everyone, when I'm well enough to do a little tacking."

Signs of Determination
"And that?" I asked, amazed.
"Was just what I have told you. I made a sign and hung it over the tub. 'One quarter or three evenings in the house for not scrubbing out tub and hanging up towels to dry.' And another in each room. One dime or two evenings at home for not leaving room in order according to judgment of court."

I could not laugh too obviously, for this day was thoroughly serious. She is a grand person, but she is disposed to be a trifle eccentric in a hearty way.

"Does it work?" I asked.
"You bet it works. But I don't feel quite right in my mind. I would rather think that I could get results by training, or rather that I had failed in the past, in some way. What do you think?"

"Well, sometimes the means to an end must be pretty drastic. Your children are old enough to know that laxity calls for restitution. They needed a jolt and I haven't a word to say. All I recommend is that you don't let down now. That would make it worse than ever. Do they pay up?"

"They don't have to very often. They would rather bend over that tub with a towel than stay away from a movie. Oh, yes, I keep my word once given. I kept Mary home two nights and a Saturday not long ago."

"Go to it then," I voted.

Post-War Troubles Paralleled in Paris.

War, bankruptcy, and universal human suffering produce the same effect now that they did centuries ago. The bloody and monstrous things that have happened since 1918 have parallels in the past—parallels equally bloody and monstrous, and due to the same sort of causes.

You get an understanding of this through reading Ralph Roeder's weigh-

Syphilis Threatens 10th of Population

U. S. Needs Preventive Action Like That in England and Scandinavia

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The heavy loss of life and wide-spread suffering caused by syphilis and related diseases could be measurably reduced in this country, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, if modern and scientific methods of prevention and treatment were in as general use here as in England and the Scandinavian nations.

In view of the seriousness of the situation here, the insurance company statisticians are cooperating with Surgeon-General Thomas Parran, Jr., of the United States Public Health Service in its recently inaugurated campaign to combat the disease which, though preventable, is said to cause perhaps 100,000 deaths a year in this country, with as many as 7,000,000 persons infected at any given time.

Declaring the American people "must be aroused to the seriousness of the venereal disease problem and be urged to take decisive action towards its solution," the statisticians say:

"Syphilis is a major public health problem. In 1934, the most recent year for which data for the entire country are available, approximately 17,700 deaths in the United States were attributed to syphilis, locomotor ataxia and general paralysis of the insane. This figure does not, however, begin to reveal the toll that these diseases exact. In the first place, syphilis as a cause of death is greatly understated on death certificates. It may well be that if all deaths due to syphilis were reported as such, the annual total in the United States would be in the neighborhood of 100,000. Moreover, it has been estimated that about 7,000,000 persons in this country have syphilis at any given time; that one of every 10 adults will be infected by syphilis at some time during his or her life; and that the annual number of new cases receiving medical care each year is about a half million. This is certainly a shocking toll of death and disability.

"This great wastage of human life could be much reduced, if knowledge of prophylaxis and treatment now generally available were more widely used. The experiences in England and especially the Scandinavian countries, bear witness to the efficacy of a determined drive against the venereal disease. In Stockholm, for example, in 1919 there were about 44 new cases of syphilis per 10,000 population. In that year a broad anti-venereal program was put into effect, and at present the rate is about two new cases per 10,000 population."

Hempstead Home Agent

By MELVA BULLINGTON

If Hempstead countians are average Americans, they will eat about 10 pounds of onions per person in 1937. But whether that is true or not, the good cook is one who knows how to use her onions as seasoning for soup, stew, hash, or salad, in every course up to the dessert. The onion crop this year is unusually large, and the price will not be high according to the United States crop report.

There is good food value in onions. They are rich in minerals and vitamins, and have some protein, fat, and carbohydrate. The only thing against them is their odor, and this can be eliminated partially by cooking in an open kettle, suggests Miss Gertrude E. Conant, Extension nutritionist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Two uses for onions are suggested by Miss Conant.
French fried onions are very good to garnish broiled beef steak or chops. Select large Spanish onions, peel, and slice crosswise in one-fourth inch slices, separate into rings and dip in milk, drain, dip in seasoned flour, and fry two minutes in hot fat (about 280 degrees F.). They should be a light brown and crisp.

Stuffed, baked onions are a good accompaniment to roast beef. To prepare, peel large onions and parboil 15 minutes. Drain and dry in a hot oven. Make a dressing of 1 cup of bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, and 4 tablespoons chopped celery. Melt the butter and stir in the crumbs, then add the chopped celery, and salt and pepper to taste. Moisten to a paste with a little milk. Spread the dressing ty new biography, "Catherine de Medici and the Lost Revolution" (Viking; $3.75).

Daughter of the great Italian banking family, Catherine went to Paris in the early 1500's as bride of the French king. Colorless and rather indecisive, she nevertheless became the real ruler of France through long years, dying with sinister fame as the instigator of the St. Bartholomew massacre.

That massacre grew out of the rivalry between French Catholics and French Huguenots; and that, in turn, says Mr. Roeder, was a by-product of the aftermath of war. France fought Spain and was overwhelmingly beaten. The government was bankrupt, the people were ruined, the nation as a whole has humiliated, miserable and hopeless.

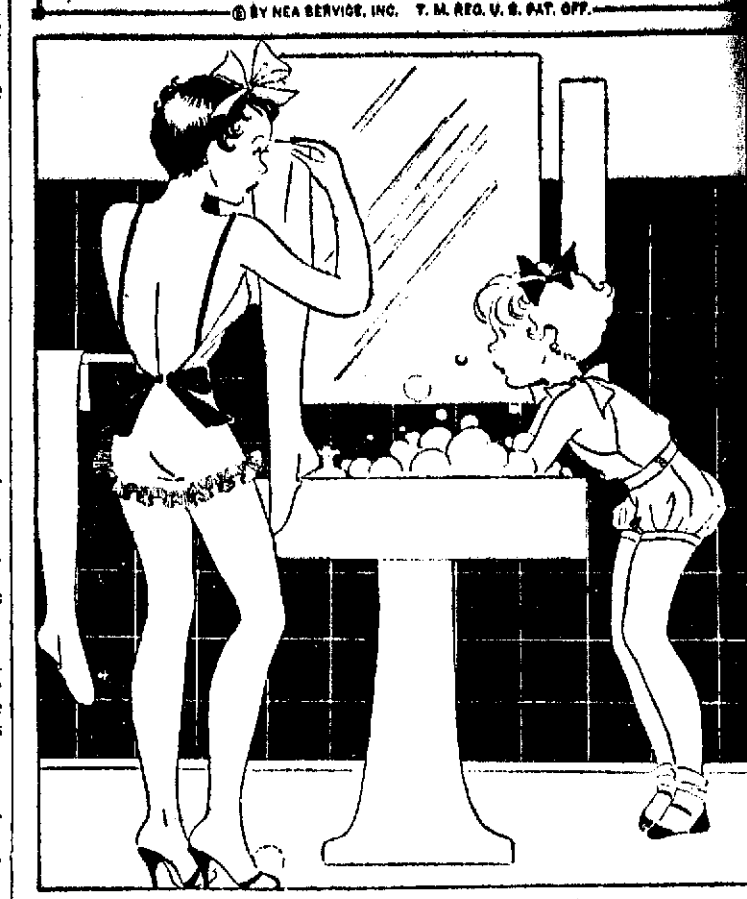

Into this situation came a religious quarrel—a clock, Mr. Roeder insists, for economic issues. A revolutionary spirit rose; rose so confusedly that at one time it actuated the Huguenots, at another the Catholics. For many years France was racked by blood and terror as the government strove to cope with it.

In the end the crown re-established its authority. But the virus stayed in the nation's blood stream, to cause the French Revolution two centuries later. And beneath that uprising struggle for political freedom, Mr. Roeder insists, there was and still is a blind struggle for economic freedom—a struggle that remains to be fought out.

A solid, thoughtful and provocative book, this.

Patsy Kelly Has No Sense—a Laugh

"That's Kelly—No Sense," Says Patsy—Films Keep Her Busy

By the Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD—The most ingratiating thing about Patsy Kelly's wisecracks is the unstrained, casual ease with which she tosses them about.

She is a comedienne, and a first-rate funny gal, but she never makes you squirm by trying to live up to the reputation. Among people to avoid out here are those who are funny, egotistical, and heaven help you if you don't think so—heaven help you because they're going to keep on trying until you laugh. If they think you didn't hear the first time, they'll repeat so willingly.

Patsy Is Natural
Not Patsy. The girl just talks that way, and doesn't try. That may be why, when you try to reduce her humor to print, it seldom jells. As they always say of the village cut-up, "It's not what she says so much as the way she says it."

She was telling us on the set the other day she thought she'd have to start saving her money. Once she'd thought she was safe. She was no glamor gal, but she had something the glamor gals hadn't. She was always willing to be the Patsy. Cusard pie? Sure, right in the face.

"But I went to a movie last night," she said, "and what d'ya think? The beauties are stealing my stuff. When gorgeous girls like Irene Dunne, Carole Lombard and Joan Crawford are going in for comedy, will anybody there see Kelly—with a wit like mine? 'I'm saving my money from now on.'"

So saying, she went into a scene which demonstrated how little she needs to worry.

Ben Bernie, here for a picture, was telling her how his recent tour made him gladder than ever, yowah, she was going to be in the Bernie-Winchell movie. Everybody wanted to know about Patsy Kelly.

The old maestro was out for lunch, talking over a broadcast idea with Patsy. He and the two gag-writing gentlemen he brought along were gleeful about their program, but they were more ecstatic about it when Patsy hit her stride.

She's Kept Busy
Most actors (you're welcome Bernie) are happy to have Patsy Kelly in their films. She may steal them, but she also will keep an audience from feeling it's been robbed. She is kept pretty busy.

"Twenty minutes between pictures," she said, "and I'm getting tired. I go to bed early Saturday night when I'm making salads and frying a steak or two. Before I knew it I was a cook."

Delaney served four years in the navy after the war, and then returned to his trade ashore. He worked in quick lunch rooms, restaurants and then in hotels. Teaching in Clyde is just a "side line" now.

Sonja Henie, Great Norwegian Ice Skater, Is New Movie Star

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—Sonja Henie, the pre-eminence of "One in a Million" before she faded before Hollywood was thoroughly skate-conscious.

Sonja Henie may not be entirely responsible, but hers is the first film to feature skating and may take credit for starting a cycle on ice and rollers.

Jack Dunn, whose rink talents have been waiting at Universal for their opportunity, will get started soon, and a contemplated feature of the new Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers picture is a dance on skates. There also is a skating chorus or two spotted in other films, and it is a matter of course that Sonja Henie will make another picture.

Before the preview this seemed a matter rather for conjecture. The blonde Norwegian Olympics champion was not exactly "picture material," you know. One-picture stardom was freely predicted for her. But no! The picture reveals a chubby, dimpled cuteness, most fetching aside from the girl's well-known prowess on the ice.

Comedy Bolsters Her
Excuse her skating, surrounded by elaborate ice ballets, is provided by a comedy built on the sure-fire formula of "Sing, Baby, Sing." There are Adolphe Menjou, the Ritz brothers, Borrah Minneville, Arline Judge, Jean Hersholt, Don Ameche, Dixie Dunbar and several others, most of them slightly mad in behavior. But when Sonja dances on skates, you can forget everything else. She is more graceful than a bird in flight, and less earthbound.

Stern stuff is this year's companion could stay up, and then last night I stay up till 5:30 talking over old times with a visitor from Brooklyn. That's Kelly—no sense.

WITH THE LADIES

Many Men Marry Though Unsatisfied to Husband Role

All men are intended for marriage, a psychologist remarked the other day. I am sure that the student of human relationships believed that he was telling the truth. However, a multitude of women would disagree with him—a multitude of women who have been married men who should have been left free to seek new Azores, sky paths, or cleaning fluids for ink and butter stains.

In her recently published biography of her father, "The Fighting Angel," Pearl Buck gives us one of the most deeply understanding, clearly drawn pictures in all literature of a man who never should have headed the lusts of the flesh but gone forever free of wife and children. For forty years he lived with his wife Carrie, who bore him seven children. Yet he and his wife led separate existences. They obeyed the scriptural injunction which made them one flesh, but nothing was said in the ceremony about becoming one mind, so if Carrie was a little lonely as she stood at her husband's mental boardland, he did not know it. He won his way alone.

Andrew, the father of Mrs. Buck and husband of Carrie, came from one of the "preachingest families in Virginia." He fought a valiant fight for the souls of the heathen. He rode on the backs of donkeys, river junks, endured hardships, walked long miles, was courageous through the Boxer Rebellion and braved bandits. He had a mission to perform and he did it well. Well—and alone.

Other Men Demand Too Much of Wives

Such a man had small need of a wife. He had no desire for the sympathy, companionship, stimulation, and affection of a woman who would remain close to him in health, in fortune and in adversity. He did not have an urge to be backgrounded with love and comfort. Thus, his wife was deprived of that which was her right to give him. True, had he recognized his latent need—if such he had—she could have brought happiness. Maybe it would have been a cloying thing to him. Andrew walked alone.

Then there are the men who demand too much, men who would own a woman, body and soul, as slaves were once possessed. Recent fiction has held up a pretty clear mirror to the selfishness of an increasing portion of men. From time immemorial it has been man's place to shield and support woman, but the sons of today too often have grown weak. They would be supported, catered to, protected, thinking that they have given woman high homage when they let her love them and wait upon them.

Certainly comfort and sympathy and affection are due men. Nor would anyone take issue with them for wanting level-headed, poised, interesting wives. However, when they dump their worries and burdens on these women, how can they expect them to meet a triple set of demands and show no weariness? It is not humanly possible.

Fate of Some Wives Worse Than Drudge of Yore

To demand a home which requires a full-time number of hours; to demand that a woman work at an outside job for a time-length that equals his own; to demand that she then spend hours entertaining him because he is exhausted from his own duties—it is good results by thousands of sufferings. A special new process by which ALLIMIN tables are produced makes them both tasteless and odorless. A two weeks' treatment costs only $50.

you will find that no day has more than 24 of them.

We look back to the drudges of our early farms and pity them. It may be that women who marry a certain type of today's men deserve a little consolation, too.

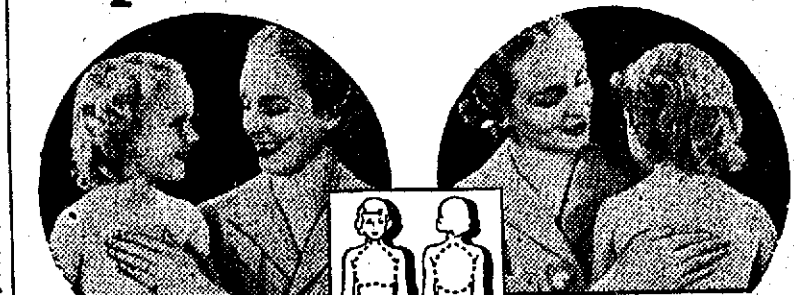

This second type of man should not marry, because there is no human paragon who can supply all of his needs.

No, the psychologist who said that all men are intended for marriage, needs to take a longer look. It might clarify his view if he talked to some of the wives.

This Safe, External Treatment Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warm cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.
2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages. This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

During the night, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets
This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Union High School Basketball Team Snaps Emmet Winning Streak

Union Wins 20-19 in Final Minute

Thrilling Game Is Witnessed by Large Crowd at Union

Union High School of near El Dorado, state title holders for the past two years, was forced to play championship calibre to take a thrilling 20 to 19 victory from the previously unbeaten Emmet senior girls' basketball team Saturday night at Union.

The victory snapped the Emmet winning streak after 16 games. Incidentally it was Union's 16th consecutive victory against no less this season. After trailing 12 to 4 at the half, Emmet rallied in the last half and was leading 19 to 18 with one minute left to play when Carr, star Union forward, sank a long field goal which won the game.

A large crowd witnessed the game and was on its feet most of the last half, especially the final quarter when Emmet forged ahead and then lost the game when Carr looped the basket with a long shot.

Carr of Union was high-point scorer with 16. Crank, Emmet forward, was runner-up with 10 points.

Union plays a return game with Emmet the night of January 30 at Emmet.

The next game for the Emmet team will be Wednesday night when the squad plays Rosston at Emmet. The senior boys' team will also clash with Rosston Wednesday night.

Top Flight Champ at Two, Fails at 3

No Other Similar Case Is Known in History of American Turf

Second of five articles on famous turf failures.

By MAX RIDDLE

NEA Service Turf Writer

NEW YORK—Top Flight remains the world's greatest money-winning filly or mare. Unbeatable as a two-year-old, this fleet daughter of a discarded sire was a total loss against the opposite sex at three. It was an astonishing revival of form, for she maintained all of her superiority against mares.

Dis Done, the imported French sire of Top Flight, had been so poor in the stud as to cause his exile. He was brought back, of course, when Top Flight appeared, but died shortly after. Top Flight's dam was Flyatt.

Top Flight was on the small side, so that one might have expected little of her. Yet she won a dozen races and $275,900. During her first year of racing she earned $24,000 to shatter the world record for a two-year-old of any sex. No horse of her age could catch her as a two-year-old. Her speed was that of the wind. She could carry weight. Her disposition was nearly perfect.

Top Flight burst upon the racing firmament in a blaze of glory in 1931. A killing might have been made had her trials been private and her true speed unknown. The Whites always have played fairly, however. They gave the little daughter of Dis Done a public trial or two so that the railbirds and morning clockers would have no doubt as to her ability.

Top Flight Quickly Proves

Right to Name

Demonstrating her right to the name in winning her first two starts, the Clover and Lassie Stakes, Top Flight ran the five and a half furlongs of the latter in 1:05 1-5, and was five lengths in front at the windup.

In succession she took the Saratoga Special, the Spinaway, Belmont Futurity, and the Pimlico Futurity. The Belmont Futurity netted C. V. Whitney $94,730. The Pimlico feat brought $56,170.

Top Flight wasn't pressed until the Pimlico Futurity. In this event Tick On and Burgoon King gave her a battle, but she outlasted and outgamed both.

Top Flight probably was the finest filly ever bred by the late Harry Payne Whitney, despite the fact that he was the brother of Roset, only filly to win the Kentucky Derby.

C. V. Whitney wanted Top Flight to repeat Regret's victory in the Derby. She was an overwhelming favorite in the winter books. Because of her sex and gameness, she fired public imagination to a red hot pitch. Only a western colt, Burning Blaze, appeared likely to match her popularity at post time.

And then as spring and racing came back to New York, Top Flight came out for her first outing. She was an odds-on choice but finished far up the course.

Players Hit Hard by Withdrawal From Derby

A stunned public learned that she had gone idle in her training and would not start in the Derby. Winter book players lost heavily on her, and more when Burning Blaze was cut down a week before the big number at Churchill Downs.

Public confidence came back in Top Flight when she ran away from the field in the Acorn Stakes for fillies, carrying top weight and winning by a six-length margin. She won the Coaching Club American Oaks by three parts of a length from the Man o' War filly Argosie. She did likewise in the Alabama Stakes.

But Top Flight failed utterly to hold her own against the males. Though her speed was such that she started favorite against them, as in the Potomac, she simply could not, or would not, beat them. This was true also in the Delaware, in which she finished a dismal last.

Some said that Top Flight was a flirt, and would loaf, when pitted against the males. Others pointed out that she always had high weights to carry. But whatever the cause, she amazingly lost form each time she raced against the colts. No other similar case is known in history, for none could doubt her dominance in her class.

note said. "It is feared such individual measures may render difficult future international collaboration as well as realization by the London Committee. (For an international group of observers to check on arms and munitions shipments to Spain.)

Such measures seem particularly premature when it is realized the rebels have not yet even agreed in principle to the establishment of any kind of control, while the governments supporting them have given no clear and unreserved consent either to establishment of control or to discontinuation of the dispatch to Spain of military contingents under the name of volunteers.

Panthers on Top in Arkansas Race

Batesville College Team Has Eight Victories This Season

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Arkansas' intercollegiate basketball campaign slackens its pace this week while athletes take time out for mid-semester exams. Only seven minor games are scheduled.

University of Arkansas' Razorbacks, who did just as critics predicted in breaking even with Southern Methodist's Mustangs, will be among those idle. As in the Baylor series, Glen Rose's Porkers permitted the Mustangs to take the opener Friday night by a narrow 29 to 25 margin, then flashed a reversal of form to run up a 37 to 28 score the following night.

While their older brothers are "hitting the books," the Arkansas freshmen get in some campaigning this week with two games. They meet Fort Smith Junior College at Fort Smith Tuesday night and take on Okmulgee, Okla., Junior College at Fayetteville Thursday night.

Arkansas College's Panthers of Batesville, leading the pack in the state race with eight straight victories, are the busy-bodies of the campaigning. They start it off against Beebe Junior College at Beebe Monday night, stay at home Friday night to engage Little Rock Junior College and jump over to Searcy Saturday night for a game with Harding.

The Panthers defeated Harding 40 to 25 last week. They also scored a 45 to 36 win over Arkansas Tech and thumped El Dorado Junior College twice, 58 to 17 and 62 to 22.

A single Arkansas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game pits Arkansas State's Indians against Magnolia A. and M.'s Mulderiders at Jonesboro Saturday night. It will be the first conference start for both teams, idle last week.

The Mulderiders are booked for a Friday night encounter with the Warriors of Hendrix College at Conway. The Warriors surprised fans last week by upsetting the State Teachers Bears. The Bear attack was too much for them on the second night when they lost 35 to 47.

Three junior college teams: Little Rock, Fort Smith and El Dorado, entertained intercollegiate warfare last week, but none was impressive. Little Rock dropped a 49 to 14 verdict to Henderson. Fort Smith lost to Arkansas Tech, 22 to 56 and El Dorado was swamped in two games with Arkansas

Bobcat Mentor Is Satisfied at Hope

Hammons Discounts Rumor Story That He May Succeed Laslie

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Football fans buzzed Sunday night with conjecture over who would succeed Carney Laslie as coach of the Blytheville High School Chiefs but no hints came from the school's athletic committee.

Fred S. Saliba, a member of the committee, said he did not know who would be offered the post. He added, "That's up to Superintendent McClurkin," who was out of the city.

Charley Jamerson, Memphis Tech High coach, has been mentioned for the place and some Blytheville fans have expressed interest in the position will be offered to Foy Hammons, Hope High School mentor.

Before accepting an assistant coachship at Virginia Military Institute, Laslie led the Chiefs to 28 triumphs out of 29 contests during a three-year period.

Hammons Satisfied Here

Coach Foy H. Hammons said Monday that he had received no offer from Blytheville school authorities in regard to succeeding Carney Laslie as football coach at Blytheville.

Hammons said that he was well satisfied at Hope and was inclined to believe that nothing would come of the rumor that he might be offered the Blytheville position.

"The first time that I knew my name had been mentioned in connection with the Blytheville school was when I read newspaper accounts Monday morning," Hammons said.

"I am satisfied at Hope, I expect to stay here," the Bobcat mentor concluded.

Rice Cage Team Tops Conference

Owls Have Two Victories, Arkansas Down in the Third Place

DALLAS, Texas.—Rice Institute's Owls were atop the Southwest Conference cage chase Monday but three sophomores and a couple of juniors, thrown together as the Southern Methodist five a few weeks ago, were the big noise.

Coach Jimmy St. Clair's S. M. U. "mistifs," not conceding a ghost of a chance at the title, had won three of their four games—including a victory over the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, defending titleholders.

A couple of sophomores, J. D. Norton and Billy Dewell, were the mainstays in a Methodist attack that beat the Porkers, 29-25, Friday night at Dallas. Arkansas won, however, in a rough battle Saturday night, 37-28, for an even split in the series. Don Lockard, Arkansas forward, continued his fine goal shooting in the series to stay ahead in the individual scoring chart with 49 points—three more than Norton of S. M. U.

Rice playing its second game of the season, fell on Texas for a 28-20 victory at Austin. Willis Orr, Owl center, eluded Jack Collins, Texas center, and cluded seven field goals and four free throws for an 18-point total.

The Owls play two of the three scheduled games this week, meeting Baylor's Bears at Waco Friday night and moving on to College Station Saturday for an engagement with Texas A. and M., their other victim to date.

Cleveland union band that was to have led the march from the gates played instead between announcements.

United Automobile Workers' Union representatives charged General Motors with "breach of faith." The charge was based on an exchange of telegrams between William S. Knudsen, General Motors vice president, and George E. Boysen, head of the Flint Alliance, an organization formed to crystallize anti-strike sentiment.

Boysen asked assurance from Knudsen that the rights of the "greatest majority" of the employees would not be "overlooked" and was told by Knudsen that the company would "never tolerate domination of its employees by a small majority."

Boysen then asked for a conference Tuesday morning for "collective bargaining." Knudsen replied the company stood "ready always to discuss with your group or any group of em-

10-Game Schedule for Camden Team

Panthers Will Take on Little Rock and Pine Bluff Next Fall

CAMDEN—With two new teams scheduled, the Camden High School Panthers will play 10 and perhaps 11 games next fall, Coach Sam Coleman has announced.

Little Rock High School and Ouachita Parish High School of Monroe, La., are the new teams.

It will be the first time for the Panthers to meet the Tigers since 1921 and will mark the first time in history that Ouachita parish will be played.

The Panthers will play six games here, all but one being at night. One day game will be played away from home.

The schedule follows:

September 17—Open.

September 24—Nashville, here.

October 1—Ouachita Parish, Monroe, La., here.

October 8—Little Rock, there.

October 15—Pine Bluff, here.

October 23—Texarkana, there (day).

October 29—Hope (tentative), here.

November 5—Hot Springs, here.

November 12—Fordyce, there.

November 25—El Dorado, here.

Eight Games for Porker Freshmen

Open Schedule With Fort Smith Junior College Tuesday Night

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—An eight game schedule that will see the University of Arkansas Frosh basketball team engage three junior college teams and a Y. M. C. A. outfit has been arranged by Coach George Cole.

The young Porkers open their season against the Fort Smith Junior college five at Fort Smith on Tuesday, January 19, then return here to take on the Okmulgee, Okla., Junior college team on January 21. Semester examinations then call a two week's halt in campus activities.

The complete Frosh schedule is as follows:

January 19—Fort Smith Junior college, there.

January 21—Okmulgee Junior college, here.

February 5—Monett, Mo., Junior college, here.

February 6—Joplin, Mo., Y. M. C. A. here.

February 9—Okmulgee Jaycee, there.

February 10—Fort Smith Jaycee, here.

February 13—Joplin Y.M.C.A. there.

February 23—Monett Jaycee, there.

Typewriter Expert Traps Extortionist

Nicks in Letters Betray Writers of Letters Demanding Money

By SAM JACKSON
Associated Press Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP)—The mere fact that the new year bears the number 1937 will make work much easier for Edward Oscar Heinrich, consulting criminologist.

In Heinrich's profession of scientific crime detection, analysis and tracing of typewriting play a prominent part, and there is no character on the typewriter keyboard that is such a "dead giveaway" as the seven.

Other characters are fairly well standardized among the various makes and models of typewriters, but the designers put some individuality into their seven. Often a single glance at the figure in an extortion note or suspected document enables Heinrich to name the precise model of typewriter on which it was written.

Hence the felon who dates his communications 1937 has one strike on him at the start.

A typical case in which Heinrich's typewriting studies helped postal authorities clear up an extortion case occurred in 1935.

Trapped By Nicks
A San Francisco physician received a typewritten note demanding $100 on a threat that alleged scandalous information about his wife would be divulged to the newspapers. He was able to name a young man he suspected but he hadn't a shred of proof.

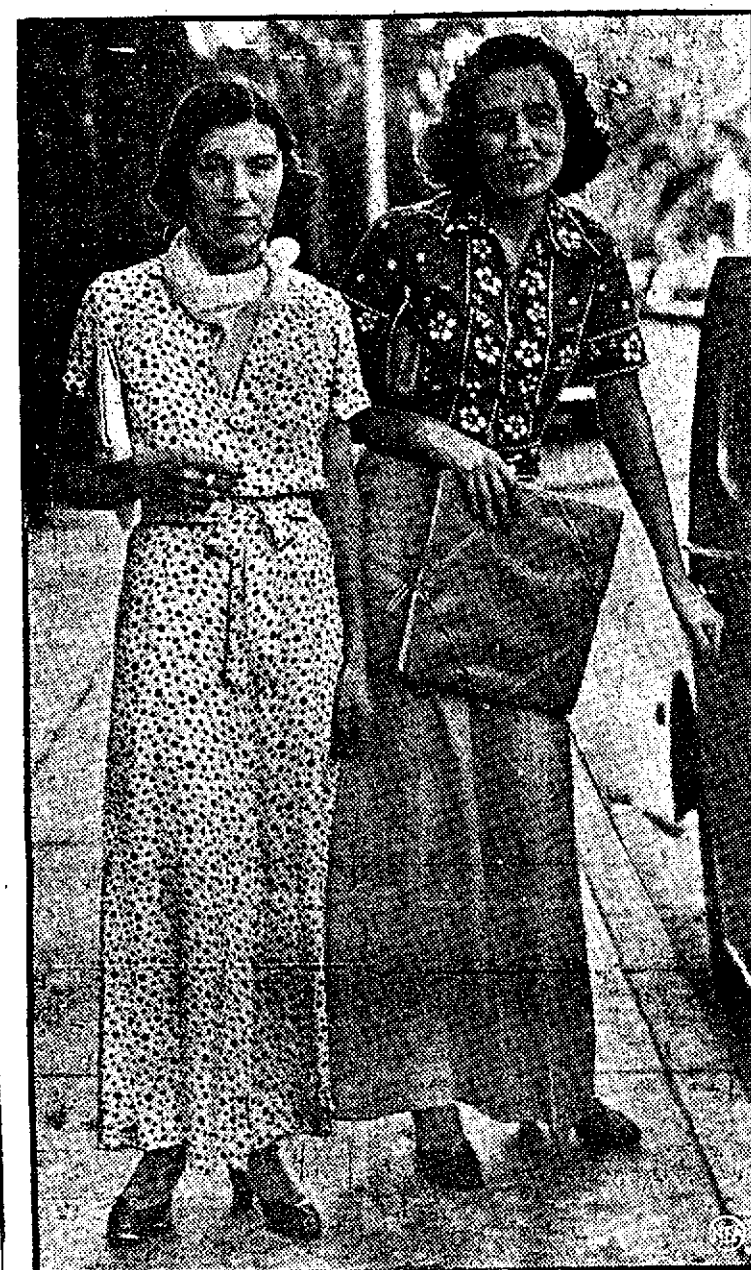

Heinrich's analysis of the typing disclosed that it had been done on a certain old model typewriter, and he suggested the federal officers trace the youth's daily routine to see if it took him near such a machine.

It was found that the suspect loitered around a theater and was on friendly terms with the owner, and that an old model typewriter was stored in the basement. Inspector George H. Austin typed off a copy of the note, and microscopic examination by Heinrich showed flaws in the alignment and nicks in the type proving conclusively that the extortion letter was written on the same machine. Confronted by

How Palm Beach 'Dresses Up'

Palm Beach is a playspot for society belles, but to M. J. Ackerman NEA Service staff cameraman and favorite newspaper photographer of the elite, it is a workshop. Here he chats with beautiful Mrs. Robertson Drake of Providence, R. I., about pictures he wants to take. The backless bathing suit has colorful felt flowers of Tyrolean inspiration down the front.

This silent evidence, the suspect pleaded guilty. Elaborate scales enable Heinrich to measure errors in alignment in thousandths of an inch, to compare curvature of letters or slants in such characters as "e" or "n" with microscopic exactness. "In this business a miss of a hundredth of an inch is as bad as a miss of a mile," he observes. "A case in which corporation directors' minutes had been altered proved simple. The guilty party had substituted one page containing important changes in the record. The trouble is that the substitute page was typed on a new noiseless typewriter that was not on the market at the time the corporation meeting was held."

Solves Poisoning
The simplicity with which scientific clues fit into each other was shown in an Oakland poisoning case. Six members of an Oakland lodge received "free samples" of whiskey soon after prohibition repeal. One man, suspicious of its odor, discovered it was poisoned and news stories on his revelation warned the other five against drinking theirs. The lodge was canvassed and one member recalled receiving an anonymous letter, which he had kept. Comparison of the handwriting on the envelope and that on the whisky packages immediately showed they were the work of the same person.

Heinrich then turned his attention to the anonymous note itself, which was a short verse in an unusual variety of typewriter lettering. He learned from the local agency handling machines with such lettering that only one such typewriter had been sold locally, and that it was in the library of an Oakland newspaper.

Meanwhile the poison had been analyzed as cyanide, which suggested an engraving plant, where cyanide is a stock product.

The newspaper's engravers were questioned and one was found to be a member of the lodge in question. Confronted by the chain of circumstantial evidence, he confessed mailing the poisoned whisky and was sent to San Quentin prison. A lodge feud was his motive, he explained.

Listing himself as a "legal chemist," Heinrich has been called into consultation on the scientific aspects of many major crimes in his 18 years of practice.

The planet Mercury has no atmosphere. Spectroscopic photographs show it as a dry, sunbaked, waterless world.

Elegance takes the place of slack casualness after dark at Palm Beach. Mrs. Jay O'Brien of New York has her hair done in a fetching roll coiffure for an evening at the patio. Her gown of printed chiffon is trimmed with a cluster of flowers cut from matching print.

LEFT—Classically beautiful at all times, Mrs. William Rhineland Steward of New York sports gaudy prints for a black chiffon evening gown, complemented by a short cape, with matching muffs, of luxurious dark sable, when she visits a Palm Beach night club.

EXTREME LEFT—When cool informality is called for, you'll find Palm Beach fashionables appearing in colorful ensembles that reek of easy comfort. About to step into her car on a shopping trip is Mrs. Howard Cushing, who wears linen slacks extra wide at the angles and a pleasant jacket lavishly embroidered with flowers. Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas (left) looks summery in an ankle-length polka dot silk dress. About her neck she has knotted a white chiffon scarf.

Those new beach outfits you've been reading about and taking with a grain of salt in lieu of salt water are getting off the shelves of cruise shops and onto the sands down Palm Beach way in Florida. Embroidered woolen decks out the pretty year-round beach denizen, Charlotte Morrison (left) of swank Bar Harbor, Me. The bodice is laced and the suit is modestly completed with brief skirt. And you're likely to see a lot more of the attractive knee-length beach reefers (grand on a choppy day) of terry cloth that protects Janet Watt of New York from the breezes. Miss Watt uses a bandanna of printed linen in Tyrolean motif to keep her hair in place.

Sought 'Skeeters' But Found Ladies

Best Laugh of 1936 Furnished by Smithsonian's Photographs

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The year end's best laugh came, of all places, out of the Smithsonian institution.

Ales Hrdlicka (pronounced Herd-licka), 67-year-old curator of physical anthropology, submitted a report of his summer's excavations in Alaska tracing pre-Eskimo civilizations. Among illustrations were Plate No. 5 showing swarms of long-billed Alaskan mosquitoes, and Plate No. 7, showing types of modern Eskimo women.

Recalling the mosquitoes, Dr. Hrdlicka wrote:

"I found it hard to sleep." Then he added, "See Plate No. 7."

Mystified but grinning Smithsonian proof-readers stared at the picture of five fur-clad Eskimo women, suspecting the veteran explorer had mixed his photographs. He had. A hasty correction was made before the final proof went to the printer.

How to Wage War

Among bits of modern army instruction is how to conduct a 10 minute artillery barrage on an enemy machine gun stronghold. First give them a heavy two-minute burst of chrapel. Survivors will dive into the safety dugouts back of the machine guns. In five or six minutes the enemy machine gunners will come back out to man their weapons, knowing that the barrage means an infantry attack is coming against them. But right then they get another burst of artillery fire that continues until the home boys go over the top. Very nice.

Plans of earnest supporters of the late Huey P. Long to put an oversize statue of him in statutory hall in the capitol have not materialized. Any attempt to instill a whooper probably never will.

At the time of Long's assassination, stories from Louisiana indicated a plan was afoot to have one statue of him occupy both niches assigned to Louisiana. But capitol regulations prohibit one state having more than one niche in statutory hall. Another is allowed elsewhere in the building. The capitol architect feared too many heavy stone or bronze statues would make the floor unsafe.

Further, Charles E. Fairman, capitol art curator, said no state would be allowed one statue big enough for two niches. He hasn't headed anything but "talk," he said, about there being any Long statue at all.

Free Ride For Borah
Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, Democrat, ordered 1,000 of the $10 seats along the line of the inaugural parade. That represents a whole year's pay for a senator.

President Roosevelt has promised soon to take Senator Borah for a ride down the Potomac. The Idahoan, an authority on international affairs, has never crossed either ocean, nor taken an airplane ride. Once he boated a little down in the Caribbean. The President plans an overnight trip in the Presidential yacht.

They have much they can talk about. If the President plans to push for

Life Begins at 4 for Little Joan

Denied sight, hearing, and speech since birth, Joan Higgins, 4, still may approach normal contact with the world if efforts of Dr. Robert Gault, Northwestern University psychologist, are successful. Using a device that translates words into vibrations, one of Gault's aides, above, is teaching Joan to recognize and identify simple objects. When her mother was unable to support her, Joan was adopted by an Evanston, Ill., family.

world court adherence, he'll have Borah to consider. Likewise, Borah reportedly is not thoroughly sold on the St. Lawrence treaty, which the President may hand to the senate for ratification, if he feels it might be acceptable.

H. J. Lemleys Hired Narrow Escape

Get Out of Car to Visit P. Brundidge, Car Rolls Down to Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Lemley had a narrow escape Saturday when their car, which they had just stopped to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Brundidge at the latter's Lake Hamilton home, rolled down the steep grade toward the lake, crashed into trees and was destroyed.

Mr. Lemley had set the brake sufficiently to hold the machine, he thought, and got out with his wife to go into the house. Mr. Brundidge greeted him, and as Mr. Lemley stepped back he brushed the car accidentally—and it started down the grade, finally turning over and crashing into trees near the water.

The accident was believed explained by the fact that property around Lake Hamilton pitches much more sharply than the eye tells a driver, and the car's weight hurled it down the grade.

CLUB NOTES

Rocky Mound

The Rocky Mound A-J club met Thursday January 14 with their agents Miss Bullington and Mr. Mountcastle. After the regular order of meeting the members were divided. Mrs. Bullington gave record books and bulletins on clothing and cooking to the girls. She also gave a list of songs to the girls and boys. Mr. Mountcastle gave the boys a leaflet on swine and poultry.

Our regular meeting day is the second Thursday in each month.

Question About CARDUI

PERIODICAL PAINS

"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?"

Each dose of Cardui contains a purely vegetable sedative and anti-spasmodic—that is, again-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve many of the ordinary functional pains of menstruation with a beneficial plant extract, not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others.

Cardui is purely vegetable, liquid in form, and comes in 9-ounce bottles, with full directions for use. Try it! Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
